Selected Grants and Contracts

Major funding sources since 2000: Principal Investigator on Research Grants/Contracts from the US National Science Foundation (NSF), National Institute of Child Health and Human Development; the World Bank; UN Population Division; United Nations Development Programme; International Labour Office, United Nations Population Fund, National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), University of Michigan Population-Environment Program, UN High Commissioner for Refugees, UN Statistical Office; USAID Higher Education for Development Program.

Since 2011, co-PI on projects funded by NICHD on Demographic Effects on Livelihoods and Deforestation of Indigenous Populations in the Ecuadorian Amazon (Clark Gray, PI); by NSF on Effects of Payments for Ecosystem Services (to reduce deforestation and encourage reforestation) in three provinces of China, of UNC-CH (Conghe Song, PI) and San Diego State University (Li An, PI); and currently by NSF (2021-2024) to UNC on the Influence of Community Forestry on the Dynamics of Integrated Socio-Environmental Systems in Nepal (Conghe Song, PI).

Recent Consultancies

Technical Consultant on Survey on Livelihoods of Indigenous Population of Ecuadorian Amazon, 2020-21, on sampling and questionnaire design, content of reports for indigenous organizations, covering all 21 indigenous organizations/populations, over 1200 communities and 40,000 households, funded by SETEA (Secretaria Tecnica de la Amazonia).

Chief Technical Consultant, MEDHIMS, 2012--. Mediterranean Household International Migration Survey (MEDHIMS) project of European Commission/European Union-Eurostat, World Bank, UNHCR/UN Population Fund, ILO, OIM, etc., involves eight Arab countries of Mediterranean Region. In 2012-13 I developed the project sampling approach to design samples for "rare" international migrants, and also the six household and individual questionnaires constituting Manual 1 (with Chief Project Officer, Samir Farid, and representatives from the National Statistics Offices of the countries in the region and stakeholders), developed community questionnaire, applied sampling methodology in first two surveys in Egypt in 2014 with the Central Agency for Population Mobilization and Statistics, and in 2015 in Jordan with the national Department Statistique. Also consulted with Tunisia in 2015 and with Morocco, 2016-17, on their plans for a national survey on international migration and sample design. Developed weights from complex sample designs for Egypt and Jordan, and successfully applied and used in analyses and tabulations in final country reports. Made multiple presentations at regional workshops for census technicians from National Statistical Offices of countries in the region from 2013 to 2017, in Brussels, Cairo, Amman, Rabat, Tunis, Paris and Athens; and at International Conferences in Brussels, Paris, Athens, and Geneva, Switz. Collaborated on tabulation and analysis plan development, and revisions of questionnaires up to 2019..Currently engaged in in-depth multivariate analysis of data on international migration from Egypt.

Member of Steering Committee, PERN (Population-Environment Research Network), March 2014-2018.

Bilsborrow, Richard, 2016-18. One of two international members of Scientific Committee of Jacques Veron et al, INED, Paris, Planned and organized International Conference of Institut National d'Etudes Demographiques, "Migracion, Environnement et Climat: Quelles Inegalites Face aux Risques?" Paris, Jardin des Plantes, October 22-23, 2018. Discussant at closing session.

Consultation with World Bank (Helidah Ogude) and South Africa Statistics (Diego Iturralde and Princesse Dasappa) on developing household survey on international migration in South Africa, 2017--18

Consultant to UN Population Division (New York), 2015, on assessing migration data needed or useful for evaluating progress of countries in achieving the new Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), presenting paper and website material on migration.

Consultant on World Bank (Moscow office) project on the design and implementation of household surveys on international migration for the Confederation of Independent States (CIS, ex-Soviet Union), applied to the design of the sample and questionnaire for Tajikistan and a linked one for urban Russia, both implemented in 2015; analysis of data (with J. Davis and I. Denisova, reports provided to World Bank in Moscow and Washington DC, 2016).

In 2012-2015, designed and managed project to enhance education about the Amazon at the university level in Ecuador, UNC-CH, with a subcontract to the Universidad San Francisco de Quito (led by Prof. Carlos Mena, Faculty of Ecology), funded by USAID project in four Andean Amazon countries, Higher Education for Development. Developed and taught two new courses, entitled "Amazonian Populations, Lifestyles, and Sustainable Development", and "Seminar on Sustainable Development," at USFQ. Supervised MS theses of USFQ masters students, School of Ecology.

Consultant 2012-2014, Regional Institute for Population Studies (RIPS), University of Ghana, Legon. Graded Masters and PhD qualifying exams, commented on MA and MPhil. Thesis presentations, made recommendation on development of PhD program in demography, and continue to evaluate/grade theses sent to me as an international external examiner.

Program Committee, on Population, Development and Environment, for Population Association of America Annual Conference in Chicago, 2017.

Some Principal Earlier Country-level Consulting and Advisory Activities

Ecuador

Earlier. Advisor to the Centro de Analisis Demográfico (CAD), Junta Nacional de Planificación and Instituto Nacional de Estadística y Censos (Center for Demographic Analysis, National Planning Agency, and National Institute of Statistics and Censuses), Government of Ecuador, October 1972-80, through International Program of Laboratories for Population Statistics (POPLAB), University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Helped design and participated in the following research on Ecuador: Measurement of underemployment from 1968 and 1975 urban labor force surveys; estimation of fertility from vital registration and household survey data; estimation of intercensal (1950-74) mortality and fertility in Ecuador using quasi-stable population analysis; estimation of fertility in Quito and Guayaquil from 1965 household survey data by Brass and Bogue procedures; development of economic-demographic model for Ecuador; estimation of effects of future alternative fertility scenarios on government education and health expenditures; development of questionnaires for household labor force and fertility/mortality surveys in Ecuador; preparation of proposal for CAD to the United Nations Fund for Population Activities, to continue demographic and demographic-economic research, subsequently funded; design of demographic component in 1979 urban labor force survey; project monitor and collaborator in the design, field implementation and analysis of national fertility-mortality-family planning prevalence survey carried out in 1982 (ESMIVD), with Instituto Nacional de Investigaciones Nutricionales y Medico-Sociales, Ministry of Public Health, 1980-84; advisor on economic-demographic modeling, interrelationships between women's economic activity and fertility, and determinants of family-size desires, contraceptive use and fertility, Centro de Estudios sobre Poblacion y Paternidad Responsable (CEPAR), 1984 to 1988. Project monitor and research collaborator, Consejo Nacional de Desarrollo (CONADE, National Planning Organization), Government of Ecuador, on the population impact of integrated rural development projects, development of family planning service statistics data bank, and planning and execution of (April 1988) National Conference on the Population Policy of Ecuador, 1986-88; helped develop Ecuador's first population policy, published by CONADE in January 1988; designed household survey on "Migration, Land Use and Deforestation in the Ecuadorian Amazon," carried out in June-September 1990; in July 1993 gave talks in Quito at the Ministerio de Energía y Minas and Fundacion IDEA to scholars and officials from many public and private-sector institutions, focusing on results and policy implications; with funding from NASA supplemented by Mellon, Summit and Compton Foundations, developed, implemented and analyzed household survey and community survey in Ecuadorian Amazon to follow up 1990 survey, including assisting Ministerio de Medio Ambiente on monitoring deforestation and illegal expansion by African palm plantations in the Amazon, 1998-present, including presentations of results to migrant colonists and local policy makers in Lago Agrio and Francisco de Orellana, July, 2003; designed and implemented ethnographic study (with Flora Lu) on five indigenous populations in the Amazon, and designed and implemented household and community surveys in 450 households and 28 indigenous communities, 2001, with research centers, Ecociencia and CEPAR (Quito); presented results to 5 indigenous federations and 8 indigenous communities, August, 2003, and June, 2004. Consultant to UNHCR, ACNUR, and Netherlands Interdisciplinary Demographic Institute on designing and analyzing survey of Colombian immigrants in 5 northern provinces of Ecuador, 2005-6, with CEPAR.

Honduras

Consultant to UN Food and Agricultural Organization (Rome) and United Nations Fund for Population Activities on development of course program, syllabus, and textbook (in Spanish) for Master's Degree course on "Population and Environment," Universidad Nacional Autonoma de Honduras, Tegucigalpa; and on developing policy and research recommendations on population, environment and health, San Pedro Sula, Honduras, September-October, 1993. In December, 2002, taught 2-week module on Demography to MA Students in Social Development at Universidad Nacional Autónoma de Honduras (funded by United Nations Fund for Population Activities), Tegucigalpa, Honduras.

Guatemala

Project monitor, RAPID II Project, on effects of population growth on deforestation and rural development, and creation of economic-demographic microcomputer presentation models, 1986-88; consultant to UNFPA to help government of Guatemala (through SEGEPLAN) draft national population policy, July-October 1989. Consultant to Macro-International and Conservation International on design of modules on migration and the environment to incorporate in the Petén portion of the Guatemala Demographic and Health Survey (DHS), 1999.

Mexico

Project monitor, "Demographic and Family Planning Prevalence Survey," Coordinación del Programa Nacional de Planificación Familiar, Government of Mexico, 1979-81; oversaw field work and participated in analysis. UNFPA Evaluation Mission Assessment, May 1989: Reviewed ongoing activities, research projects, and development plans of Mexican government agencies/ministries on linkages among population and national and regional planning, rural development, and the environment (CONAPO, Ministries of Agriculture and Agrarian Reform, Secretariat of Budget, Secretariat of Environment and Urban Development). Consultant, Consejo Nacional de Poblacion (CONAPO), Government of Mexico, on design and analysis of surveys of internal migration in Mexico, 1989, 1992, 1998. Consultant, Pronatura (Merida) and World Wildlife Fund (Mexico City) on development of population monitoring system based on household and community surveys, for Calakmul Biosphere Reserve, Campeche, Mexico, 1999.

Consultant, University of Pachuca, Pachuca, Mexico, "National Survey on Indigenous Populations and Poverty", funded by Ministry of Economic Planning, German Vasquez, PI. Provided extensive advice on sample and questionnaire design, via email and in person, January-February, 2011.

Indonesia

Advisor, 1977-81, Biro Pusat Statistik (Central Bureau of Statistics), Government of Indonesia. Evaluation, analysis, and preparation of reports on the results of the three-year Sample Vital Registration Project, a dual-record system covering 250,000 people in 10 survey areas; Brass and Chandrasekar-Deming estimates of fertility and mortality were prepared. Design of questionnaire and analysis plan for 1980-82 multi-round household survey on fertility and mortality in East Java, the results of which were subsequently published in Indonesia and in POPLAB reports on the EJMPs.

Peru

In 2011, with seed money from UNC-CH and Johns Hopkins University (with William K.Y. Pan), organized project in Puerto Maldonado, Madre de Dios Department, Peru: trained 14 fieldworkers (interviewers and supervisors) to conduct household survey, “Encuesta sobre Población, Salud y Medio Ambiente a lo Largo de la Carretera Interoceánica” (Survey on Population, Health and Environment along the Interoceanic Highway); development of household and community questionnaires, sample of 38 rural and 11 urban communities, listing sheets for households, etc. This led to multiple theses at Duke University and UNC-CH as well as follow-up household surveys in the same region focusing on impacts of gold mining in the region on health and publications (led by Pan, Duke University).

Other Earlier Consulting Activities

Consultant, World Bank, exploratory project on international migration Eastern Europe and CIS States, Feb 2010-2016. Wrote report on status of data on international migration in existing household surveys in 26 countries of region, presented results in Moscow, including recommendations for sample design.

Consultant, World Bank, Magreb Countries (Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia, Egypt), evaluating existing sources of data (from recent household surveys and population censuses) on international migration statistics and making recommendations for improvements (sampling and questionnaire design, etc.), 2008-9.

Consultant, United Nations Children’s Fund (UNICEF), Innocenti Research Center (Florence, Italy), developing design for a multi-country project on independent adolescent international migration between developing countries, 2008.

Consultant, World Bank, Africa Migration Project, on sampling and questionnaire design for surveys to collect data on internal and international migration in Sub-Saharan African countries, 2008-2010. Also assisted on drafting terms of reference for bidders in six participating countries. Assisted in writing up reports on sampling design, and Nigeria report in general.

Suitland Group on International Migration, recommendations for improvements in data (participant), January 2008-2011.

Commissioner, International Commission on Development Impacts of International Migration, Center for Global Development, Washington, DC, 2008-2009.

Consultant to International Union for the Scientific Study of Population (IUSSP), organizing session on migration and development for 2009 International Population Conference in Marrakech, Morocco, 2007-2009.

IFS Advisor, International Foundation for Science (Stockholm), on evaluation of proposals from scholars in developing countries to conduct scientific research on topics of development and environment, 2006-16.

Consultant on International Migration, Remittances, and Gender, International Organization for Migration, Guatemala City, October 2007.

Consultant, United Nations Statistics Division, Use of Household Surveys to Measure International Migration, in forthcoming Technical Report on the Use of Censuses and Surveys to Measure International Migration, May-November 2007. The Technical Report is distributed to all 228 countries and territories in the world to use as a guide for planning and undertaking population censuses, for 2010 round of censuses.

Consultant, International Labour Office, Appraisal of ILO Statistical Activities, Geneva, Switz., and Bangkok, Thailand, May-October 2007; 72 pp. Evaluation Report (with Martha Mallard-Meyer of Brazil).

Consultant on Population and Development, United Nations Population Division: Preparation of Wall Chart on Population, Environment and Development; Assessment of impact of international migration in World Bank-International Monetary Fund Poverty Reduction Strategy Papers for 8 developing countries; organization of expert group meeting on urbanization and development, February-April 2007.
